CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—Extensions of Remarks

Third World forces have turned to counter-violence as a means of winning their freedom.

"Often overlooked and simply taken for granted, frequently described as the 'community of law and order', is the violence of the status quo in America, the violence of many generations that still exists in massive fashion today. This violence is expressed in the agony of millions of men, women and children who in varying degrees suffer hunger, poverty, ill-health, lack of education, ger, poverty, ill-health, lack of education, non-acceptance by their fellowmen, it is compounded of slights and insults, of rampant injustice, of exploitation, of police brutality, of a thousand indignities from dawn to dusk and through the night.

We hear so much in today's world about 'terrorism'. Repeatedly it is used to signify violent action on the part of oppressed peoples in Asia, Africa, Latin America, or within the black ghettos of America, as they take up the weapons of violence in a desperate effort to wrest for themselves the freedom and justice denied them by the systems that presently control their lives. What is so easily (one suspects, often very deliberately) overlooked is the fact that the very regimes rebelled against the incarnation of a greater violence and terrorism than any used in the struggle against them. Long before the first freedom fighter laid hold upon a gun, or club, long before the first brick was thrown in Watts or Newark, racist societies were already guilty of a ruthless reign of terror where freedom was suppressed and human dignity denied.

... before we deplore terrorism it is essential for us to recognize fully and clearly whose 'terrorism' came first, so that we can assess what is cause and what is effect. It is to recognize the violence of the revolution when he strikes out against the inequities and cruelties of the established order. What millions of middle-class people and other non-poor fail to recognize is that they are themselves accomplices each day in meeting our inhuman, all-pervading violence upon their fellows.

"Instead of trying to devise nonviolent strategy and tactics for revolutionaries in other lands, we will bend every effort to defuse militarism in our own land and to secure the withdrawal of American economic investment in oppressive regimes in other parts of the world.

"Revolution then is needed first and foremost in the United States, thoroughgoing revolution, not a mild palliative. Specific and far-reaching changes are needed in American foreign policy, with equally specific and thoroughgoing changes in the U.S. domestic scene."

Americans for Democratic Action (ADA)—formed in November 1941 as the Union for Democratic Action, which had top Communist agent Louis Fraina as its first director of research and which was designed to promote U.S. aid for the Soviet Union, no longer Hitler's ally after the June invasion. ADA's identification with the Soviet made a name change politic in 1947.

ADA has always been staunchly anti-anti-communist and campaigned for abolition of the House Internal Security Committee and the Senate Sub-committee on Internal Security. It favors recognition of Communist curfew and its domestic goals call for implementation of huge federal government programs in health, housing, education—in a nutshell, socialism. It is noted that among the current ADA board members is Sylvia Crane, vice-chairman of the Communist Party front, the National Committee Against Repressive Legislation.

Organizing Committee for a Fifth Estate, named by former CIA Director William Colby as responsible in part for the murder of the CIA Athens station chief.

The Business Executives Move for New National Priorities (BEM)—formerly Business Executives Move for Peace in Vietnam, was formed in February 1967 by Henry E. Niles, chairman of the board of the Baltimore Life Insurance Company and father-in-law of New Left theorist Staughton Lynd. Niles, who has been associated with a number of socialist-pacifist organizations including the Peace Research Institute which merged with the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS) in 1963, changed BEM's name and program after the Communist victory in Vietnam.

Campaign for a Democratic Foreign Policy (CDFP)—formerly the Indochina Peace Campaign, Jane Fonda's public relations support group for the Vietnamese Communists.

Chile Legislative Center—supports the deposed Marxist United Popular government of Salvador Allende and opposes the present military government of Chile.

Church of the Brethren, Washington office.

Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Department of Church in Society.

Clergy and Laity Concerned (CALC)—formed in 1965 by the National Council of Churches, but first became widely known for its 1967 White House Demonstration in conjunction with the Communist-influenced Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. CALC continued to play an important role in New Mobe and its successors, meeting with the Vietnamese Communists repeatedly in Paris and Hanoi. In January 1970, CALC described its goals:

... what we're about today is not simply an end to the war in Vietnam, but a struggle against American imperialism and economic exploitation in just about every corner of the world. ... Our task is to join those who are angry and who hate the corporate power which the United States presently represents, and to attempt, in our struggle, to liberate not only black, brown and yellow men in every corner of the world, but more importantly, to help liberate our own nation from its reactionary and exploitative policies."

CALC and the AFSC for some four years have been coordinating the "Stop the B-1 Bomber: National Peace Conversion Campaign."

Episcopal Peace Fellowship (EPF)—formerly associated with the anti-Vietnam coalitions.

Friends Committee on National Legislation (FCNL)—an official lobbying organization.

FRIENDSHIPMENT, organized by Cora Weiss and other anti-Vietnam activists to raise money and supplies for the Vietnamese communist regime. Mrs. Weiss, who has traveled on a number of occasions to Hanoi, has been a highly active organizer and financial angel for the coalitions supporting the Vietnamese Communists. She is a leader of CALC and Women Strike for Peace; during 1976 she worked for the July 4 Coalition (J4C), set up by the Castroite communist Puerto Rican Socialist Party (PSP) and the Weather Underground's Prairie Fire.

Organizing Committee (FPOC) to organize anti-Bicentennial demonstrations in Philadelphia. Her husband, National Lawyers Guild member Peter Weiss, attempted to join the defense team for the Baader-Mainhof terrorists in West Germany; has been a leader of the American Committee on Africa, a support group for African Marxist terrorists for many years; and is a trustee of the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS).

Friendshipment contributions are routed through the Beach Mai Hospital Fund, a project of the Communist Party's youth group, the Young Workers Liberation League (YWLL).

Friends of Indochina Organizing Committee (FIOC)—associated with the Indo-

China Resource Center and funded as "a project of the Regional Young Adult Project" with offices at 120 Maryland Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20002.

Friends of the Filipino People—a support group for guerrilla insurgents in the Philippines which includes Marxist-Leninists of several factions.

Indochina Resources Center (IRC)—an outlet for propaganda hailing the Communists in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU)—one of the strongest Communist Party-controlled labor unions, still headed by Harry Bridges.

Inter-University Committee to Stop Funding War and Militarism.

Jesuit Conference, Office of Social Ministries.

Mennonite Central Committee.

National Association of Social Workers.

National Council of Churches—a bureaucracy funded by several major religious denominations which has supported with funds and agitation, Soviet-backed Marxist-Leninist terrorist movements as the Vietcong, and the Rhodesian Zimbabwe African People's Union (ZAPU), one of whose captured guerrillas has admitted murdering three West German Roman Catholic missionaries on December 5, 1976. The NCC founded and provided funding for Clergy and Laity Concerned, and provides office space for a number of other radical Marxist and anti-capitalist groups. NCC is currently waging a campaign to pressure U.S. businesses to withdraw all investments in South Africa to encourage economic collapse and a Marxist takeover. In this country, NCC has funded the violence-prone American Indian Movement (AIM), and raised bail money for convicted AIM members.

Network, Washington, D.C.
SANE, formed with the assistance of the AFSC, and which played a leading role in the National Conference to Slash Military Spending, organized by Communist Party, U.S.A. stalwart Pauline Boyce Rosen, head of the U.S. section of the Soviet front, World Peace Council, in 1975.

Tapol.
Union of American Hebrew Congregations—one of whose leaders, Rabbi Balfour Brickner, was active in New Mobe and other anti-Vietnam projects.

Unitarian Universalist Association—which had representatives serving in the leadership of New Mobe and PCPJ; but as with other "religious" organizations in this radical coalition, has never indicated that its sponsorship was the result of a vote of all Unitarians.

United Church of Christ, Board for Homeland Ministries—various bureaucratic subsidiaries of the UCC have been listed as members of the anti-Vietnam, Communist Party influence PCPJ and its predecessors. UCC official Rev. Allen Fisher played a leading organizational role in the founding of the Communist Party's 1973 front, the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression. However, despite the use of denominational names, there is no indication that the members of the UCC congregations were asked to debate the issues and vote on membership in the CFNMP.

United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., Washington office.

United Methodist Church, Board of Church and Society and the Board of Global Ministries, Women's Division.

Washington Office on Africa (WOA)—the official lobbying arm of the American Committee on Africa (ACOA), which has for years paid for African Marxist terrorists to come to the U.S. and publicize their causes, and which provides testimony before Congress in support of such organizations.

Washington Office on Latin America (WOLA)—another group which supports the deposed Marxist government of Chile.

Demos Condemn CIA

Northern California Americans For Democratic Action (A-DA) is calling for congressional review of the Central Intelligence Agency as an instrument of U.S. foreign policy. The Northern California ADA chapter recently passed a resolution calling on Congress to review the status of the CIA and requesting that the administration cease using the CIA as an instrument of U.S. foreign policy. The resolution also asked that the CIA be compelled to "cease fomenting revolution and counter-revolution; cease subverting foreign governments" and that it "abjure assassination as a means of implementing U.S. foreign policy." The resolution added that in view of changing needs the CIA should be placed under the jurisdiction of the Coast Guard.

The resolutions will be forwarded to Washington, D.C. for action by the national ADA at its 23rd annual convention to be held early in May.
